

Discovery Film Festival is back and we couldn't be more thrilled to be welcoming families, school pupils and teachers back into the building for a packed programme of screenings of the very best international films for children and young people! The festival launches on Saturday with Jackie and Oopjen a delightful Dutch comedy about which takes engaging with paintings to a whole new level! Fun and hijinks around Amsterdam follow, perfect for families with children aged 8 and over.

In terms of new releases, this week is the Timothée Chalamet show! It's rare that we have an actor on both of our screens at the same time, but you won't hear us complaining. Who could resist Denis Villeneuve's much anticipated sci-fi / fantasy epic Dune gracing our screens or Wes Anderson's chocolate box delight, The French Dispatch? Not us.

For fans of world cinema, the atmospheric new Polish film Never Gonna Snow Again is an enigmatic treat starring Stranger Things' Alec Utgoff.

Enjoy!
