

Anthony Hopkins is Sigmund Freud in Freud's Last Session, a captivating drama arriving at DCA Cinema this week. In his final days, Freud, a recent escapee from the Nazi regime, receives a visit from C.S. Lewis. These two great minds then engage in a monumental session, debating the future of mankind and the existence of God.

For more absorbing filmmaking, don't miss haunting Pakistani thriller In Flames, and the wholly original and unexpectedly poignant Bigfoot story Sasquatch Sunset. We've also got more chances to see Viggo Mortensen's western The Dead Don't Hurt, and you can experience a sleek new 4K restoration of The Matrix.

Enjoy an earlier film from the Wachowski siblings with Bound, a sizzling neo-noir thriller screening as part of Dundee Pride, along with the ultimate concert film, Madonna: Truth or Dare. Finally, our Artist's Choice Screenings continue with The Pearl Button, an atmospheric documentary on the water and ocean of Southern Chile from Patricio Guzmán. Enjoy!
