

Experience the power of music with The Choral, arriving at DCA Cinema this week. Set in 1916 Yorkshire, Ralph Fiennes plays an unconventional chorus master tasked with bringing together the local community as the war rages on the Western Front.

Elsewhere, Josh O'Connor takes on the role of an incompetent art thief in The Mastermind, directed by Kelly Reichardt (Showing Up). There's more time to see Yorgos Lanthimos's satirical thriller Bugonia, along with true Scottish story I Swear and Guillermo del Toro's acclaimed interpretation of Frankenstein.

We begin our Too Much: Melodrama on Film season with All That Heaven Allows* (4K), and Live from the Met continues with La Bohème. We're screening Exhibition on Screen: Caravaggio, and we join Take One Action Film Festival for inspiring environmental documentary Power Station, followed by a panel discussion. Enjoy!

Fri 7 - Thu 13 November

The Choral (12A, 1h53m)

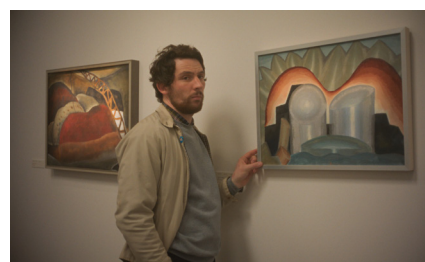

Ralph Fiennes plays a chorus master in this First World War drama which sees a Yorkshire community find solace in making music.

The Choral

The Mastermind (12A, 1h50m)

Josh O'Connor plays a bumbling art thief in celebrated filmmaker Kelly Reichardt's meditative subversion of the typical heist drama.

The Mastermind

Bugonia (15, 1h58m)

This satirical environmental thriller from Kinds of Kindness director Yorgos Lanthimos stars frequent collaborator Emma Stone.

Frankenstein (15, 2h29m)

An exciting new take on Mary Shelley's classic Gothic tale, featuring Oscar Isaac as Victor Frankenstein and Jacob Elordi as the Creature.

All That Heaven Allows (4K)

All That Heaven Allows (4K) (U, 1h29m)

We kick off our Too Much: Melodrama on Film season with Douglas Sirk's 1955 multicolour masterpiece, restored in glorious 4K.
