

See an Oscar-tipped Timothée Chalamet in Uncut Gems director Josh Safdie's propulsive table tennis drama Marty Supreme, arriving at DCA this week. Chalamet plays Marty Mauser, a young man with a dream of sporting glory, who'll stop at nothing to achieve his goal. Chalamet is supported by a stellar cast, including Gwyneth Paltrow, who came out of acting retirement for the role.

Also screening is Studio Ghibli's Princess Mononoke, a beautifully realized tale of civilization versus nature directed by Hayao Miyazaki and now restored in 4K. You can enjoy this fantasy epic in Japanese with subtitles or dubbed in English. Finally, there's more time to see James Cameron's visually stunning utopian adventure Avatar: Fire and Ash along with inspiring true Scottish story I Swear. Enjoy!

Sat 27 - Wed 31 December

Marty Supreme (15, 2h30m)

Timothée Chalamet trained in table tennis for six years to star in this intense and thrilling drama, which is loosely based on the life of 1950s American table tennis star Marty Reisman.

Marty Supreme

Princess Mononoke (12A, 2h13m)

A warrior on a quest to find a cure to a deadly curse meets a girl raised by wolves in this epic environmental fantasy from Studio Ghibli. Available to watch in Japanese with subtitles or dubbed in English.

Princess Mononoke

Avatar: Fire and Ash (12A, 3h17m)

A visually stunning, imaginative adventure in the world of Pandora, from James Cameron, the director behind Titanic. This new story sees the peace of the Na'vi community threatened by a rival clan.

Avatar: Fire and Ash

I Swear (15, 2h)

We've brought back this inspiring Scottish story by popular demand. Based on the true life of Tourette's Syndrome campaigner John Davidson and his experiences growing up in 1980s Scotland.
