

Love, war, and rock 'n' roll – we're exploring life's biggest joys and toughest challenges in this week's cinema programme.

Tom Hiddleston stars in The Life of Chuck, a life-affirming fantasy drama adapted from a Stephen King novella and directed by Mike Flanagan. Then it's off to New Mexico for Eddington, Ari Aster's gripping Western starring Joaquin Phoenix and Pedro Pascal.

The Oscar-winning team behind 20 Days in Mariupol are back with another powerful documentary, 2000 Meters to Andriivka, we've got more chances to see spiky rom-com Materialists, and our Michael Haneke retrospective closes with psychological thriller Caché and haunting historical drama The White Ribbon. Then we dial it up to 11 for the welcome return of This is Spinal Tap to our screens.

Plus! Drop in to our Info Space from Thu 21 until Sun 24 August, where you can try our free immersive experience Homing: Navigating Landscapes in Virtual Reality.

Fri 22 – Thu 28 August

The Life of Chuck (15, 1h50m)

The life-affirming adaptation of Stephen King's novella explores three chapters in the life of an ordinary man, played by Tom Hiddleston.

The Life of Chuck

Materialists (15, 1h55m)

Dakota Johnson, Pedro Pascal and Chris Evans star in this stylish romantic comedy, written and directed by Celine Song (Past Lives).

Eddington

Eddington (15, 2h29m)

In this modern Western from Ari Aster (Midsommar), a murder shatters the fragile order of a town during the 2020 lockdown.

2000 Meters to Andriivka (15, 1h47m)

This haunting documentary looks at the lives of Ukrainian soldiers and the impossible decisions they face in the trenches.

Caché (15m 1h59m)

Michael Haneke's 2005 psychological thriller stars Daniel Auteuil and Juliette Binoche as a couple who find they are being filmed.

Materialists

This is Spinal Tap (15, 1h27m)

Rob Reiner's 1984 satire about an over-the-hill heavy metal band is a priceless look at the music business and its madness.
